

Environment

Purpose

To establish the principles which permit the efficient and sustainable use of natural resources, taking into account the environmental impacts of the development of projects, the operation of a site or its closure.

Principles

- We protect the area of influence of our operations by recognising and protecting its biodiversity and cultural-historic systems.
- We conserve and protect the environment by using energy and water resources efficiently and sustainably, minimising residues and reducing the hazard they pose and by preventing contamination and the environmental impact of our installations .
- We comply with the legislation in force, norms, undertakings, procedures, standards and agreements signed that are applicable to Collahuasi.
- We seek to promote an approach to the environment that is based on transparent and honest communication with our employees, shareholders, suppliers and clients as well as with the authorities and the communities of which we form part.
- We incorporate our employees, suppliers and contractors into the implementation of this policy, promoting and rewarding contributions that result in processes that are more environmentally responsible.

Environment

- At Collahuasi, we understand environmental management as the responsibility of all our own employees and those of collaborators.
- We encourage the training of personnel, strengthening environmental culture and awareness at Collahuasi and in the community.
- We contribute at the regional and national level to the discussion, development and diffusion of policies, laws, norms, practices and techniques that together foster care for the environment and development.
- In the management of its business, the company takes into account the principles of the ICMM for its performance as regards sustainable development.
- It is Collahuasi's policy to inform the authorities and the community, whenever appropriate, about events it considers relevant and to do so in a way that is truthful, transparent and timely.
- We improve our environmental practices in the different stages of the development of the company and its projects on the basis of experience, constantly promoting continuous development.
